

Chinese Manifesto

Aka "The Death of America"

It was a brilliant plan, really.

First, they used our own media to spread the FEAR of the Corona virus, which leads to shutting down sporting events, churches, schools, offices, businesses, and airports.

NY and California take the lead, as expected. And since our government always has our best interests in mind, we comply.

Next, as increased coverage of "The Pandemic of the Millenia" fans the flames of hysteria, it's decided that all food must be re-inspected, and all grocery stores close. Travel is further restricted, as gas stations and ports are closed.

People are asked to stay at home, and indoors. Those who go outside, or suspected of having the virus, are reported to the police by their neighbors, and then taken away to be "tested."

All U.S. Aircraft carriers are ordered back into port, due to threat of the virus. Generals originally resist, but are blasted into obedience by social media and TV networks. Our military bases go on quarantine, so there's nobody available to gas up our fighter jets. Rumor also spreads that touching anything, even metal, can infect you.

At this point, we're all trapped in our homes, and at the mercy of our government as the economy shuts down completely. We're basically cattle, but at least we feel safe.

The Communist Party of China announces they have developed a vaccine for the virus, and that our elections have been moved up. As Americans are escorted into the voting booth one by one, those who choose correctly are given the antidote.

After the election, members of the Communist Party laugh about how easy we were conquered, without firing a single shot.

We finally get some good news as businesses are allowed to re-open, although special "permits and fees" will be needed. This money goes to the State, and is for the good of the people.

More good news arrives, as it's announced that hundreds of our elected officials and media personnel will get lucrative positions in the new government.

So, to all the liberals in America that enabled this to happen - congratulations. Again, a truly brilliant plan, and I pray you get everything you deserve.
